

Every year the Composition of my Board changes. How do I Navigate this issue?

No single relationship is as important to an organization than the one between the Executive Director and the Board. An effective and productive relationship is contingent upon each having a clear understanding of its roles and responsibilities.

Let me help you make your difference in working with your board.
Together, we will explore:

1. Identifying potential Board members
2. Creating a Board member job description
3. Planning effective Board meetings
4. Implementing Board committees
5. Enhancing your relationship with the Board
